

What is claimed is:

1. A method of designing wireless applications on an application server platform for wireless data, comprising the steps of:

    using a software development kit to define custom device profiles; and detecting said profiles to determine the type of wireless device or browser making an incoming request to said server.

2. Apparatus for performing the method of claim 1.